relief of the family of their deceased brother employee of the street railway company, Motorman W. S. Diemer. Words and James.
The magnificent organization headed by the tragedians Frederick Warde and Louis James, will appear in Sheridan Knowles' "Virginus," at the Burtis opera house, Davenport, on Friday, February 16. All of our tragedians of note from McCreary's day to our own, except Edwin Booth, have essayed the role of Virginus in Knowles' version of the old story. It has been Mr. Warde's repertory about 13 years, but is now given with a breech of detail that entitles it to a place among the famous revivals of the period. While none of the established traditions of the play have been discarded, it is gratifying to know that Mr. Warde has brought new thoughts to bear upon the presentation of it, and illuminated the use of lights to illustrate the breaking of the morning in the mountains in the scene of Dentatus' death and the thrilling passage between Virginus and Lucius where the latter comes with his momentous message from Rome. Mr. Warde's Virginus as a whole is authoritative and a happy illustration of a well graded impersonation by thoughtful intent, and brought out of its catastrophe with a passionate power. Mr. James appears as Claudius. The part is the reverse of the sympathetic yet so artistic is the actor's treatment of it that admiration of his art has frequent expression in spite of the antagonism aroused by the repulsive character of the deceiver.

Distinguished Lecturers.
Col. Robert G. Ingersoll lectures at the Burtis at Davenport tonight on Shakespeare.

Hon. George R. Wendling on Saturday evening delivered a lecture on "The Man of Galilee," at Harper's theatre, and it is useless to say that it was one of the most interesting and instructive of the series of lectures under the auspices of the Lecture association. Mr. Wendling's language is simplicity itself, and his enunciation is perfect. He is not a hasty talker, but he is deliberate and smooth. He approached his subject in the most graceful manner, and drew a most beautiful picture of "The Man of Galilee."

Saturday Feature.

Charles King, a story of love, romance and adventure on the plains of Arizona. A full chapter of this serial, consisting of from six to eight columns, will be given each week in the Saturday Argus.

LADIES MUST GO.

OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

Ladies' Misses' and Children's Footwear

At less than manufacturer's cost.

The men's and boys' shoes will soon join our clothing stock. Having decided to reunite the men's and boys' shoes with the clothing stock, and not having sufficient room for all, we are selling out our entire stock of ladies' and misses' shoes less the following reductions: Some at one-fourth off, some at one-third off, some at one-half off, and some at less than one-half off.

It's a pity to sacrifice our fine stock of Ladies' Shoes, particularly when this has been one of our most successful departments, but being unable to secure more store room it's the only recourse. With the big reductions they are moving fast. It's a chance in a life time. Don't miss it.
